Dear Mr. Ahmann:

In reply to your letter of April 24, 1962, the reports you saw were based on a television program. I was caught with an unexpected question. It did give me an opportunity to say how important I thought the decision of the Archbishop in New Orleans.

I am sorry I have no text of what I said.

Sincerely,

BURKE MARSHALL

Dear Burke:

[redacted] of the Courier's Westfield bureau is the man who wrote the enclosed.

I have covered local government for the past nine years and no longer respect it as an instrument of social progress. What the town fathers interpret as consent may often be apathy, ignorance, or disinterest. This may be the fault of my profession.

In citadels of the status quo such as Westfield, treatment of minority groups can be particularly high handed. Years ago Westfield ripped down a whole row of Negro homes as "eyesores" with the intent of placing a playground on the site. A Catholic high school rose on the site instead, with no attempt to replace housing lost. Applications for apartment construction on the borders of Scotch Plains were turned down for fear that Negroes would be the occupants as the area was adjacent to the Negro section of Scotch Plains. Had I been covering the meeting, I would have included more of Mrs. Jones' remarks.

I am sure you know more about this subject than I, but I also believe that there are private hospitals in New York City and elsewhere which discriminate against Negro nurses despite a shortage of trained people in this field.

I no longer have fear of city government, per se, and believe the federal government will exercise its powers, just as it has in interstate transportation, to ban discrimination through FHA, urban renewal and in all other projects where it contributes funds.

Your talk certainly must have helped, if only to start people thinking. It certainly helped me to learn more about Westfield in one hour than in the year I spent covering the place.

Sincerely,

[redacted]

Attorney Abram Did a Fine Job, Unit Decision Clears the Air

By PAT WATTERS

"A voter is a voter is a voter..."—Morris Abram.

"But even the new system misses the mark in two respects..."—County unit decision.

THE FIRST part was the day-long session in Federal Court Friday, and the second part was the suspense-story ordeal of hearing the decision read Saturday and not knowing until two-thirds down it whether we had won back our birthright, and the third part was the quiet, soul-felt joy of people realizing just how much had been won.

The most striking thing about the day in court was the brilliance of the presentation made by Atty. Morris Abram, a tour de force display of professional competence, knowledge of case and precedent, and of eloquence.

ARGUMENTS

There was a massive amassing of evidence, affidavits and charts and maps and copies of laws and voting statistics, and there was the two-hour Abram argument which was good to the soul to hear, partly because of the conviction of the man speaking and partly because it was a sounding of truths that brought alive the greatness and the glory of the concepts of self government.

There were the sharp exchanges between Mr. Abram and opposing counsel, as when E. D. (Buck) Murphy said sarcastically he didn't believe an affidavit from Mayor Hartsfield could speak dispassionately on the county unit system, and Mr. Abram snapped back that neither could a doctor speak dispassionately about cancer, but that didn't mean his knowledge wasn't valid.

And there were exchanges between Mr. Abram and the judges, like the one when Mr. Abram said we weren't talking about games, and Judge Bell said no, we were talking about politics, and Mr. Abram said maybe we were talking about politics but this was talking about the most precious right of all.

There was irony in his description of the new legislative plan which threw a popular vote which right back into a minority vote county unit system election, and great feeling in his sounding of the fundamental truth, "All rights and powers originate with the people and the people are sovereign," and simple, cogent eloquence in his describing the basic question on voting: Either it must be majority rule or minority rule; there is nothing in-between.

And there must be mentioned the contrast between this performance and that of the state, with an attorney general elected by the people never opening his mouth and a lawyer, getting probably a larger fee at taxpayers' expense than the average American makes in a year of hard work, who drewed weak arguments and said apparently seriously that a remedy for disenfranchised voters was to move somewhere else.

These state people, including one of the younger men who cameh themselves in the old machinery, with their weak answers to the suit seemed to literally shrivel as Mr. Abram cried out about the county-unit system, "What a blight this has been on government in Georgia," and when he read from the Federalist Papers and from Franklin and others of the great beginnings, the Eighteenth Century miracle of vision and practicality and genius, of America.

AGONY

The second part, the suspense part, was an agony of listening to the dry, slow voice of Judge Bell seeming to say through much of the decision that Mr. Abram's careful network of argument and evidence was wrong, but coming finally at the end to the declaration that he was right, and then the masterful forming of the court order that seems to assure against any further efforts to take the precious vote away from the people.

And just how precious is this new-won privilege of the vote was what, in their smiling and hand-haking and head-haking, the people there in the court, the plain citizens among the notables who had come to hear and see, seemed to know and acknowledge. They came, such citizens, later to the newspaper city room, just out of a desire to express happiness about it, and all over the state there must have been similar acknowledgements that something great and right and just had occurred.

Now to live up to it.

Dear Burke:

As you know we have about demolished the County Unit system. Of course we still have the rurally dominated Legislature, however, we are really on the way.

[redacted] handled this case so brilliantly that it has attracted the admiration of the whole state.

I understand the State will appeal, and if they do, the Georgia decision might well be a guide line for reapportionment all over the Nation.

Enclosed herewith is a newspaper column about [redacted] handling, which I thought you might like to read.

Yours truly,

Dear Mrs. Sand:

Thank you for your letter about Mr. Lacour. You may be interested to know that I have personally discussed with him at length the problems in New Orleans. He has the confidence of at least some of the Negro leaders there. Based on my own observation and knowledge, I do not share your discouragement.

I am sorry not to have seen you in Washington.

Dear Mr. Marshall:

It is extremely discouraging to find that we are to have no representation as U.S. attorney in New Orleans.

He is not only campaigned for Gov. Jimmie Davis, but in recent months supported Mr. Scherer in his low-level campaign for mayor, all based on the race issue.

Can anything be done about this?

Dear Burke:

I appreciate very much your courtesy in taking the time to talk with me about Judge Boyd last week. Judge Boyd is an institution in this part of the Country because of his record of strong and impartial law enforcement and dedication to his work.

You may be interested in the attached Moral which appeared in the Memphis Press-Scimitar on May 1, 1962.

Kindest regards.

Dear [REDACTED]

Many thanks for the clipping, for your letter, and for your interest. I am very impressed with your own attitude towards the racial problems which I hope that Westfield now realizes it has.

I read with interest your column on the Hatch Act and the Male problem. I think that you and I are in agreement on the merits of this legislation. However, Congress saw fit to pass it and I suppose the Civil Service Commission has a duty to enforce it.

There are two points in your column which I will comment on for your future guidance.

First, it is not necessary under the law that the federal government pay any part of the salary of the state employee. The employee comes under the statute if his principal employment is connected with an activity financed in whole or in part by the federal government.

Second, the restrictions against engaging in political activities or political campaigns is not limited to federal political activities, but also applies to state and local political activities.

The statute which Male is alleged to have violated can be found in Title V, U.S.C. Section 118(d)(a). I understand that the latest date he has been given to answer the charges is today. You are probably aware, however, that he has instituted an action in the federal court to enjoin the Commission from proceeding against him.

With my very best wishes and warm regards to your family,

Dear Friend:

We are indeed very grateful for our visit with you last Wednesday and wish to express our deep appreciation for your personal concern for the children of Prince Edward County. Since we were unable to see you before we left Thursday for Prince Edward County, I should like to take this opportunity to report on our visits with other Government officials.

We had a good conference with Berl Bernhard and three members of his staff and discussed with them the possibility of a hearing by the Commission on Civil Rights. They are willing to raise the matter with the Commission members but doubt whether their heavy calendar would permit another major project before the end of the year. The Virginia state advisory committee is just being reorganized and the Commission would certainly encourage it to undertake a state-wide effort in behalf of Prince Edward County. We suggested, also, a study of the impact of closed schools on white and Negro children, families, teachers, community relations and the economy of the County. Berl Bernhard felt that such a study could most appropriately be done by the Office of Education and said he would be pleased to offer the assistance of Commission staff if it were undertaken.

We met with Commissioner McMurrin and Robert Rosensweig in the Office of Education. At first they were very reluctant to consider sponsoring a study of the Prince Edward situation at this time. They believe that the new consultant service on school desegregation will undoubtedly be interested in collecting information on Prince Edward eventually along with the experiences of other communities but this new program will not be in operation before fall. Although the Office of Education hesitates to get involved in any way in Prince Edward County, on its own initiative, it would apparently not turn down a request for assistance from an authoritative body. If the Department of Justice or a Federal court were to ask the Office of Education to conduct a study and present information which might be helpful in the present course of litigation, Dr. McMurrin and Dr. Rosensweig stated that they would certainly cooperate. They would also be willing to explore the possibilities of a grant to a university for such a study under their Office's cooperative research program.

James Quigley expressed interest in the idea of an intensive study of the impact of Prince Edward's closed schools and said he would discuss it with you and Attorney General Kennedy. He was concerned about the report of the cutting off of grants under the Aid to Dependent Children's Program to Negro children who are otherwise eligible because they are not in school. He will ask his regional office in Charlottesville to investigate this situation.

During our visit with Mr. Mostow, of the legal staff of the Department of Agriculture, and Gerald Hoffman, of the Extension Service, the question of expanding the L-H program during the emergency was discussed. Mindful of your concern that agencies should increase their activities with Negro children while the schools are closed, we suggested that the Extension Service which already has a base in the County might consider an expansion of his work, especially among the younger children whose inability to read would certainly limit their participation in L-H work. Mr. Hoffman is willing to explore this suggestion. Both men have asked us to let the Department know of evidences of discrimination against Negro farmers in the administration of projects in the County.

We shall be glad to keep you informed about developments in Prince Edward County and will welcome future consultations with you.

Sincerely,

Jean Fairfax

I find myself committed to preparing a paper on legal developments in the field of civil rights from 1945 to date, to be included as a chapter in a book sponsored by Professor Rankin of Duke. I would like to give the heaviest possible stress to the most recent work and accomplishments of your own outfit, although I must do the best I can by way of the longer survey. If you have any material available which would be helpful, I would be grateful if it could be sent to me.

Thanks.

PHONE 521-3901

May 10, 1962

Mr. Burke Marshall
Assistant Attorney General
Civil Rights Division
Washington 25, D.C.

Dear Mr. Marshall:

Thank you for the report on the school lunch program. I have sent copies to our legal committee and they now have this under consideration. You will find enclosed an interesting photograph which was taken the day Archbishop Rummel announced the desegregation of all Catholic schools. I thought that these people showed some imagination in preparing such a display. In the event that you or any of the members of the administration may want additional copies, please let me know.

I have been invited to attend a conference by the President's Committee on Equal Employment Activities on May 19, in Washington, D.C. and I will be in Washington several days either before or after the conference. While there, if it is convenient to you, I would welcome the opportunity to talk to you.

Yours sincerely,

K. Cunningham
Henry Cabrac, Jr.

*Dear Mr. Cabrac:
I will be at May 19 conference, but would like a chance to chat with you in my office. Please call when convenient.
Sincerely,
Henry Cabrac, Jr.*

Mr. Burke Marshall,
Assistant Attorney General
Civil Rights Division
Department of Justice
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Marshall:

It is my plan to be in Washington Thursday, May 17, and Friday, May 18. If it meets with your convenience, I would like to have a visit with you and outline for you briefly what Greyhound has done to comply with the order of the Interstate Commerce Commission dated September 22, 1961, in case No. MC-C-3358, effective November 1, 1961. I also want to bring to your attention certain directives recently issued by a few District I. C. C. Supervisors, calling for affirmative steps to be taken by Greyhound, which, in our opinion, go far beyond the intent and the interpretation of the Commission's order, and the scope of the ruling in Boynton vs. Virginia, 364 U.S. 454.

If the dates I have above suggested do not meet with your approval, please designate a date that is more suitable to you, and I'll arrange to meet your convenience.

Very truly yours,

HK:RJ

Hayes Kennedy
Hayes Kennedy,
General Claims Attorney

P.S. I assure you my visit will be very brief.

H.K.

Dear Mr. Kennedy:
It will be a pleasure to talk to you.
I will not be far - May 17, but will be May 18.
Please tell my secretary, Mrs. Bennett, for a time. I am sure we can agree on a convenient time.
Very truly yours,

Muc

to meet and talk with him and hope we can be of assistance although the Department is very limited in its ability to hire more lawyers.

NEW ORLEANS 29, La

Dear Mr. Marshall:

Although I know that you read the New Orleans newspapers more thoroughly than I do, you may have missed some of the enclosed gems of oratory, so I am sending them along. Don't miss what Judge Brady had to say to the ladies of the C of C.

My best to you,

Sincerely,

Don [redacted] had the pleasure of meeting Mr. John Paul Altman.
I thought we achieved a lot of the experience so this has helped teaching of her. Actually, the school system function has very well and the city has been revised problems than any other city in the country. All right, he said
I hope you have written to help but I don't know.
I'll let you know.

Dear Mrs. Abramson:

I had already had the pleasure of reading Mr. [REDACTED]'s tolerant and restrained statement of the experiences he thinks he had teaching up here. Actually the school system functions here very well, and the city has less racial problems than any major city in the country, although it has some.

I hope you will continue to keep me informed.

With best wishes,

Burke Marshall

Dear Mr. Marshall:

In line with our conversation when you were here in Montgomery not long ago, concerning the part the local newspapers play in formulating public opinion, I have taken the editorial pages from five of the issues to these papers, all during the past week. I think it is important that you and the Attorney General be cognizant of the climate existing in this area. I am enclosing the editorial pages from these five issues. These pages, as you can tell by the dates, were not selected to prove the point; they merely reflect the day-to-day editorial policy.

With best regards,

Sincerely yours,

Dear Mr. Marshall:

[REDACTED] telephoned me this week to inform me that a foundation upon whom we were relying for a grant has turned us down and therefore my travel schedule is restricted and I will not be able to make the trip to Washington. Under the circumstances, this was all that could be done, but it is definitely frustrating because I was coming to Washington not only to attend the conference on employment, but to meet with resource people in order to get information to encourage the more progressive southern bishops to put a nondiscriminatory clause in their building contracts and in order to sell the success story of New Orleans to other bishops and archbishops of the south where they have not yet desegregated their schools.

It is our hope that some other foundations might provide the necessary funds for us to continue our work in the near future. If and when they do, you may be sure that I will visit Washington and notify you beforehand.

Yours sincerely,

Henry Cabirac, Jr.

Mr. Burke Marshall, Assistant Attorney General
Civil Rights Division
Department of Justice
Constitution Avenue & 10th Street, N.W.
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Marshall:

From time to time I am very much in need of information concerning civil rights litigation which has either been instituted by the Justice Department, or which the department has entered, after the institution of the litigation by other parties. Newspaper accounts, which are the chief source of our information concerning action taken by the courts, are often fragmentary, and almost always omit details such as names of parties and the courts where the action is pending.

My problem is this: I would like to obtain from the Civil Rights Division, if it can be made available, a list of all pending civil rights litigation. My chief need is styles of cases, the location of the court (including division of the federal district court in which the action is pending) and docket numbers, if these are available. I am hopeful that somewhere in your division that this sort of index is kept, so that a copy could be made without any difficulty. If you do not have such an index of this litigation, then I realize that I am asking largely, and I can appreciate the task it would be to assemble such information.

If your staff can give me any assistance in this connection, I will be most grateful.

Very sincerely,

Mrs. Ann Ingram

MEMORANDUM FOR THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

I was given the following information by Bill Creech, who is counsel to Senator Ervin's Subcommittee on Constitutional Rights:

On June 8 at 9:45 a.m. arrangements have been made for children from the George Mason Center in Virginia to take a tour of the White House. This is a public school for retarded children. The arrangements were made with the White House by Edward Rose, principal of the school. There will be a group of 43 children and 27 adults.

One of the children is the daughter of Mrs. [REDACTED], a member of the staff of the Subcommittee. Her husband works in the FBI.

Mr. Creech thought you would be interested in this information, and that you might want to see the children.

Mr. Burke Marshall has asked me to write you and request a copy of a letter you sent to him dated February 23, 1961. This letter concerned the airport terminal buildings at Columbus, Georgia, and Montgomery, Alabama.

We have searched the Department's files but to no avail. If at all possible, we would appreciate having a copy at your convenience.

Thank you very much.

Dear Mr. Marshall:

I was glad to be able to see you while in Washington and enjoyed talking with you.

It was thoughtful of you to offer to have the Solicitor
General move my admission to the Supreme Court and I do thank you. Senator McClellan was able to get away from his meeting and I am now duly enrolled. This was the first time that I had ever been before the Court and I was greatly impressed by the experience. I had seen the President in person and the Congress in action but lacked a visual impression of the Judicial branch of our Government and now have an even greater pride in the Court and what it stands for.

May 21, 1962

Mr. Burke Marshall
Assistant Attorney General
Justice Department
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Marshall:

Thank you very much for your telegram Tuesday evening. I certainly did not want anyone staying in the office in order to meet me. In order to prepare for a re-organizational meeting of a local council in Mobile on June 7th and the Workshop on Employment Opportunities in Birmingham on June 8th and 9th I felt it was important to return immediately to Birmingham instead of waiting until today to see you or someone in your office.

On April 9th and 10th students at Talladega College held sit-in demonstrations at two or three drug stores in Talladega. Several students were arrested and also Dr. [redacted], white 65 year old Dean of the Chapel at Talladega College, was arrested and jailed. It is interesting to note that he went to the drug store about 45 minutes before the students came. They sat down next to him. The students were arrested and the policeman was ushering them out of the store. A white man pointed to Dr. [redacted] and said, "What about him?" Dr. [redacted] told the officer that he had not been refused service and had not been asked to leave. The policeman then called a waiter over and told him to ask Dr. [redacted] to leave which he did. At this point he then arrested Dr. [redacted] and took him on to jail with the other students. On April 11th there were no demonstrations. I did go to Talladega and talked with Dr. Gray, President of the College. I also talked with the owners of two of the drugstores where there had been demonstrations and I attended a meeting of students at Talladega College. To all of these people I suggested there should be efforts made to encourage the Mayor to appoint a bi-racial committee to begin negotiations. On April 26th I again went to Talladega. I talked with the Chief of Police, two white ministers, Dr. Gray and Dr. [redacted]. I also attended a meeting of the White Ministerial Association in Talladega. The group attending the Ministerial Association had about a half hour discussion as to whether I should be allowed to speak or not and voted that I should not say anything. Again I urged all that I talked with to try to get some communications open between the College and townspeople. On April 28th the State Attorney General issued an injunction against all students of Talladega, Dr. Arthur Gray, Dr. [redacted] (field worker for Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee), Dorothy Vailes (student leader of the demonstrations), [redacted] (who to my knowledge was not in Talladega at all) and a reporter from New York who was in town looking for a story. My name was also included in this list. I learned of the injunction against me by reading the Sunday paper. Our Board has hired Attorney [redacted] Birmingham 3, Alabama,

Mr. Burke Marshall
Washington, D. C. - 2
May 31, 1962

to be our counsel.

We appreciate very much your concern about Alabama and your interest in the whole field of Civil Rights. If there is any way that I can provide information that might be of assistance to you, please feel free to call upon me.

economic growth...

Economic growth, the expansion of companies already doing business in Alabama, and attracting new industry to our state means a higher income for our people, a decrease in unemployment, more tax dollars to operate schools, build roads, development of waterways. As the economy expands projects can be developed to attract new industry.

Industrialists, bankers, business leaders, newspapermen in Alabama are now increasingly aware of the fact that stable social conditions are essential to attract new industry. For nearly four years there was no single major industrial expansion in Little Rock after the school crisis of September, 1957.

The Wall Street Journal of May 26, 1961, found examples of immediate economic effects of the violence in Birmingham on May 15? "We've been hurt and hurt bad," declares a top official of one of the City's largest banks.

let's work together...

—To assist local communities to face and meet their own problems with their own resources.

—To build bridges of understanding and operate an atmosphere of mutual respect between all peoples in Alabama.

the alabama council is...

—An independent voluntary organization of Alabamians of all races and creeds living in cities and small communities engaged in all kinds of occupations.

—Membership is open to all persons in Alabama who subscribe to its purposes.

our purpose...

—To serve as medium for reaching a workable day-to-day arrangement for individuals who strive for intelligence and fair play in race relations.

—To promote channels for prompt and easy communication between individuals and groups of all races.

—To encourage and support individuals and governmental agencies dedicated to the maintenance of law and order in the implementation of the decisions of our courts.

—To foster an atmosphere and environment in which citizens of all races, creeds and colors can exist and work together in decency and dignity.

—To encourage the development of basic concepts of human dignity, individual freedom and responsibility as embodied in the Declaration of Rights of the Constitution of Alabama, the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution, Bill of Rights and other Amendments to the Constitution of the United States, and in the basic Judeo-Christian concepts of the dignity and significance of each individual as a child of God, and as a brother of all men everywhere.

our methods...

Dear Burke:

I had a very good conversation last week with Mr. Orrick about the possibility of my working for the Department of Justice. There are one or two spots in the Civil Division into which I might fit, but I am not at all sure that the kind of work I would be doing there would be rewarding enough in its own terms to justify the serious cut in salary that I should have to accept.

While I have by no means counted out the possibility of working in Orrick's Division, I think I would be foolish if I did not at least inquire what possibilities, if any, there are in your Division. You will understand, I hope, that I do not write to you in any "old pal" fashion and expect no consideration on that basis. I think I am a good lawyer, and I am actively interested in the work of the Civil Rights Division. If there is something for me there, good. If not, okay too.

I saw Gene Rostow up in New Haven last Monday and regaled him with the story of my class's visit to your office. He is following what you are doing very closely and is astonished and delighted with what you have accomplished to date.

Sincerely,

At least tentatively I have made a date for you to talk to the Attorney General at around 4:00 o'clock on the afternoon of June 18. I hope that you still plan to come up that week with your boy. We will all be very delighted to see you, and I will be happy to make arrangements for your boy to have his tour at any time that is convenient to you.

I also mentioned your proposed visit to Justice White, and as I was sure he would be, he will be most pleased to see you and to say hello to your boy. I told him that you intend to write to Mr. Justice Black about that.

At your convenience I would appreciate it if you would drop me a note to let me know if this is satisfactory.

Please convey my best wishes to Mrs. Johnson.
